PRESIDENT ROBAK: Debate ceases. The Chair recognizes Senator Chambers to close on his amendment.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Madam President and members of the Legislature, this amendment, instead of having this collection of whoever they are going to be referred to as the Policy Cabinet, will be referred to as the Schutzstaffel. The "Policy Cabinet", every place that term appeared in the bill would be stricken and "Schutzstaffel" would be inserted. Every place you have "director", you strike that and put "obersturmbann feuhrrer", and every place you have the "directors of the agencies", you would strike and insert "each obersturmbann feuhrrer". Every place where "Policy Secretary" is found, it would be stricken and "feuhrrer" would be inserted. I believe in truth in advertising and labeling. The cruelty which is often found in the way the SS Department deals with individuals, the way their underlings deal with individuals justify me offering these truthful labels. When you have cowardly, cruel people, you magnify the harmfulness they do by increasing their numbers. So when you bring all of these people together into a superbureaucracy, it is easier for them to, so to speak, throw the rock and hide their hand. There is going to be a greater diffusion of responsibility and a more difficult time in establishing accountability. There is a difference, as you all know, in operating your office where you can see those who work for you, and being up on the 14th floor of this building and trying to control what happens in every room throughout this Capitol Building. The more you place under one person's control and responsibility, the less direct impact that individual is going to have. If Mr. Leuenberger right now cannot control the smaller version of the SS Department, how is he going to control one magnified and enlarged? He can't, and he won't. He is not brought here to do anything about the problems that people have, those who are to be the recipients of these services. His job is to be like some of these, I will call them, advisedly,
